

The funeral of Sir Arthur Pearson, the blind philanthropist, which took place at Hampstead Cemetery, London, was a remarkably impressive one. Thousands of the blind, including many whom war had deprived of sight, were among those who mourned a devoted friend. Tonic Press.

Capt. William R. Sayles of the office of naval intelligence, Navy Department, has been detailed as Naval Attache at Santiago, Chile; Lima, Peru, and Quito, Ecuador. Central News (c) Clineinst.

A railway is being built from South Australia to Port Darwin in the northern territory, and material has to be transported across the blazing desert on camels, as the photograph shows. Vide World.

Above—Bob Morrison, California golfer, sometimes uses the nose of Harry McNamara as a tee for driving purposes. McNamara has no competitors for his part of the performance. Kadel & Herbert

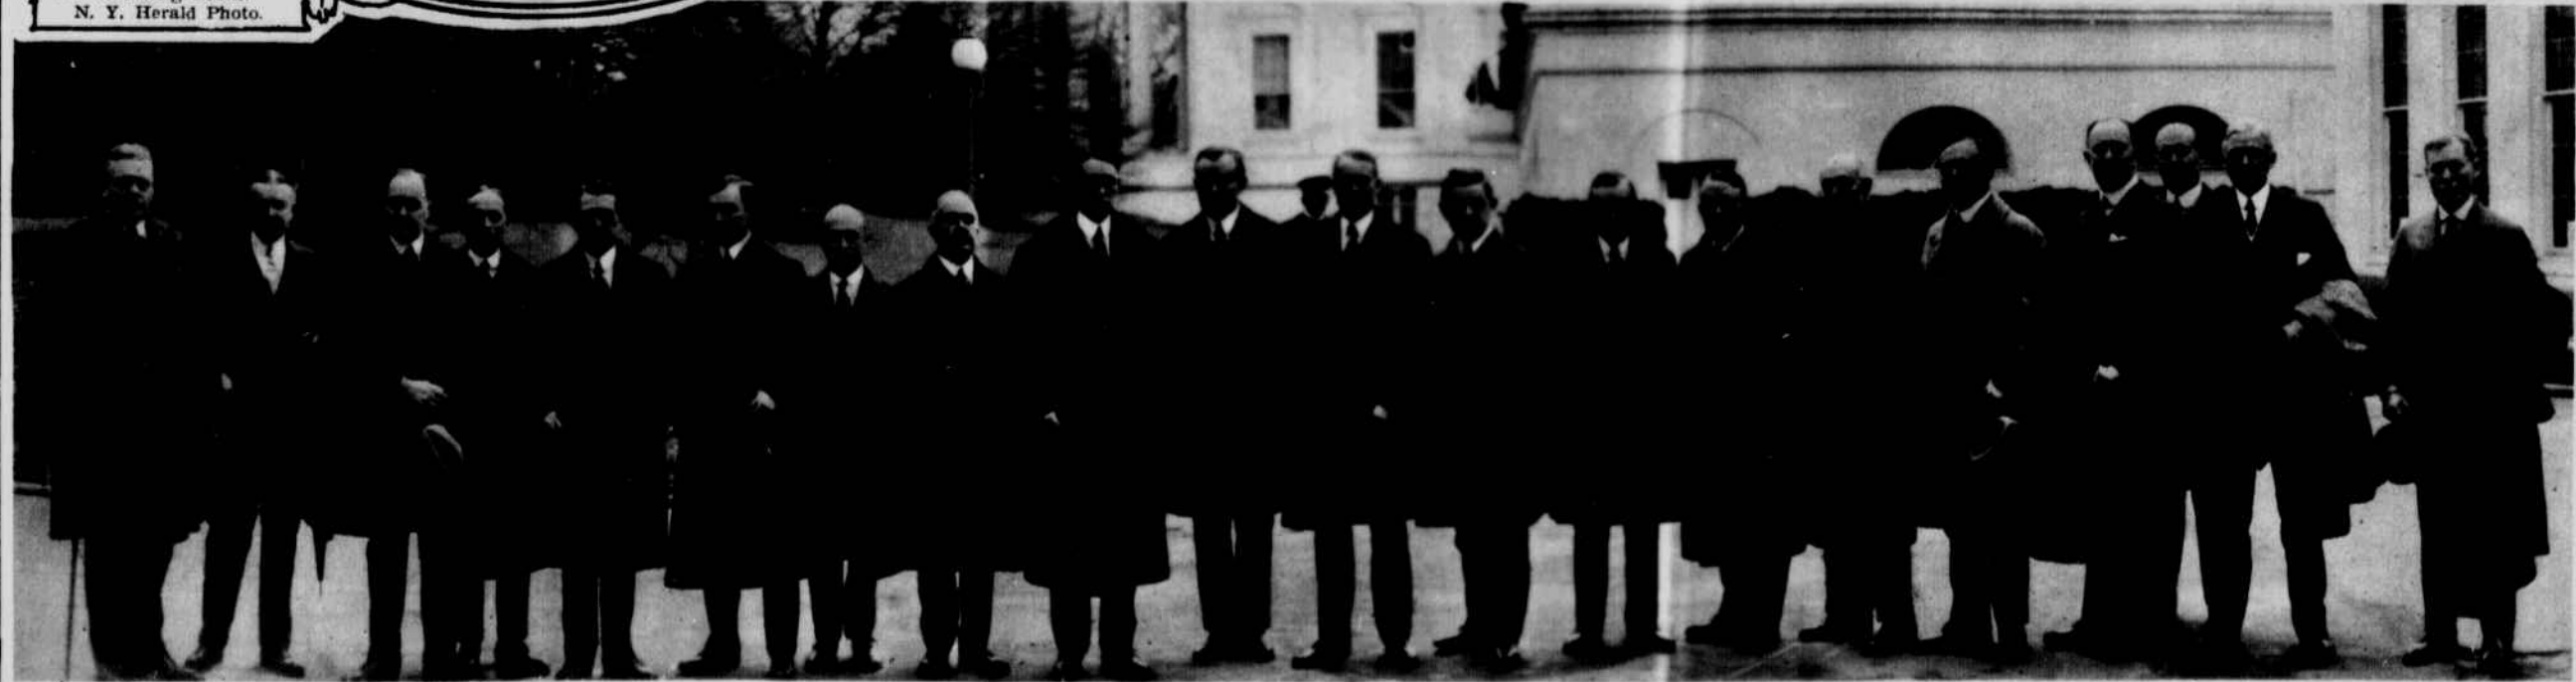

Miss Dorothy Dickson, American comic opera star, who is appearing in London, has become extremely popular. The photograph was taken in her dressing room. N. Y. Herald Photo.

"Mr. Balfour in New York" is the title given to this caricature of the British statesman by David Wilson of Belfast. It has been exhibited in London.

At left—Another Wilson caricature is called "The Red Glove." It represents Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier. Kadel & Herbert.

The administrative committee and chairmen of commissions of the American Bankers Association photographed in the White House grounds. Left to right they are: Frank L. Hilton, New York; John S. Drum, San Francisco; J. W. Barton, Minneapolis; Dr. John H. Williams, Harvard University; John G. Lonsdale, St. Louis, Mo.; M. A. Traylor, Chicago; Dr. Walter Liechtenstein, Chicago; John H. Puelicher, first vice president, Milwaukee; Thomas B. McAdams, president, Richmond; Walter W. Head, second vice-president, Omaha; J. A. House, Cleveland; R. S. Hecht, New Orleans; Fred I. Kent, New York; Raymond R. Frazier, Seattle, Wash.; F. H. Sisson, New York; I. H. Kempner, Galveston, Texas; W. G. Fitzwilson, New York; George O. Watson, Washington, D. C.; Joseph Wayne, Jr., Philadelphia; Thomas B. Paton, New York.